7 UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
8 WESTERN DISTRICT OF WASHINGTON
9 AT SEATTLE

10 OZONE INTERNATIONAL, LLC, a 11 Washington limited liability company,

12 Plaintiff,

13 vs.

14 WHEATSHEAF GROUP LIMITED, a foreign 15 private limited company registered in England
16 and Wales,

17 Defendant.

18 Case No. 2:19-cv-01108-RAJ

20 ORDER DENYING PLAINTIFF'S 21 MOTION FOR A TEMPORARY 22 RESTRAINING ORDER AND 23 PRELIMINARY INJUNCTION

25 I. INTRODUCTION

26 This matter comes before the Court on Plaintiff's Motion for a Temporary 27 Restraining Order and Preliminary Injunction (Dkt. #3). Defendant opposes the Motion 28 (Dkt. #9). Having considered the submissions of the parties, the relevant portions of the record, and the applicable law, the Court finds that oral argument is unnecessary. For the reasons stated below, the Court DENIES the motion.

30 II. BACKGROUND

31 Plaintiff, Ozone International, LLC ("Ozone") is a Washington-based company that 32 "developed an ozone machine that significantly extends the shelf life of food and beverage

1 products.” Dkt. #3 at 2. In 2016, Ozone began discussions with Defendant, Wheatsheaf 2 Group Ltd. (“Wheatsheaf”), a private limited company based in the United Kingdom, 3 regarding Wheatsheaf’s potential acquisition of Ozone. Dkt. #3 at 5. For the purposes of 4 facilitating the deal, Ozone alleges that Wheatsheaf created two subsidiaries: Wheatsheaf 5 Group US Inc. (“WGUS”), a Delaware corporation with a principal place of business in 6 Minnesota, and Wheatsheaf Group US Food Safety LLC d/b/a TriStrata (“TriStrata”), a 7 Delaware limited liability corporation based in Washington. Dkt. #3 at 7; Dkt. #1 ¶ 7. On 8 August 17, 2017, Ozone entered into an Asset Purchase Agreement (“APA”) (Dkt. #1-1, 9 Ex. A) with TriStrata whereby TriStrata acquired a substantial number of Ozone’s assets, 10 excluding certain contracts (“the Excluded Contracts”) which Ozone retained ownership 11 over. Dkt. #3 at 6. Wheatsheaf (TriStrata’s parent company) was also a party to the APA 12 “solely for the purposes of Section 6.05 and any provisions of Article I, Article IX, and 13 Article XI as they relate to Section 6.05.” Dkt. #1-1, Ex. A. Section 6.05 provides: “Buyer 14 has sufficient cash on hand or other sources of immediately available funds to enable Buyer 15 to make payment of the Purchase Price and consummate the transactions contemplated by 16 this Agreement.” Id. In addition to the APA, TriStrata and Ozone also entered into a 17 Transition Services Agreement (“TSA”) (Dkt. #1-1, Ex. B), providing for the transition of 18 Ozone’s business to TriStrata over a period of time. Dkt. #9 at 6. Wheatsheaf is not a 19 party to the TSA. Id. at 10. Under section 4.02 of the TSA, TriStrata agreed to service the 20 Excluded Contracts and, in exchange, Ozone agreed to pay TriStrata a service fee. Dkt.
21 #1-1, Ex. B. The total purchase price ($9.9 million) included a $1.5 million reserve to 22 allow Ozone to “pay TriStrata for its continued servicing of the Excluded Contracts under 23 the TSA.” Dkt. #9 at 7.

24 Following the close of the deal, Wheatsheaf alleges that TriStrata routinely invoiced 25 Ozone for services provided under the TSA, however, after Ozone exhausted the $1.5 26 million reserve, it stopped paying the invoiced amounts. Dkt. #9 at 8. As of February 28, 27 2019, TriStrata alleges that Ozone has failed to pay up to $1,860,166.99 in invoices. Dkt.

1 # 9 at 8. On March 29, 2019 TriStrata brought suit against Ozone in King County Superior
2 Court alleging breach of contract and requesting a declaratory judgment excusing TriStrata 3 from further performance under the TSA due to Ozone’s “material breach.” Dkt. #10-1.
4 Two months later, on May 31, 2019, TriStrata filed a petition for receivership in King 5 County Superior Court. Dkt. # 10-2. Since filing for receivership, Ozone alleges that 6 TriStrata has fallen behind on servicing the Excluded Contracts under the TSA. Dkt. #3 at 7 11. According to Ozone, it has received multiple complaints from customers regarding 8 TriStrata’s failure to service their ozone machines. Id. at 11-12. If left unchecked, Ozone 9 contends that TriStrata’s failure to service the ozone machines will have a “catastrophic 10 effect on Ozone and the users of the North American food supply.” Id. at 12.

11 On July 17, 2019, Ozone filed a complaint (Dkt. #1) alleging breach of contract, 12 fraud, negligent representation, and alter ego claims along with a motion for a temporary 13 restraining order (“TRO”) and preliminary injunction (Dkt. # 3). Wheatsheaf opposes 14 Ozone’s motion (Dkt. #9).

15                   III. LEGAL STANDARD

16                   A preliminary injunction is an “extraordinary remedy that may only be awarded 17 upon a clear showing that the plaintiff is entitled to such relief.” Winter v. Nat. Res. Def.
18 Council, Inc., 555 U.S. 7, 22 (2008). The standards for a preliminary injunction and 19 temporary restraining order are “substantially identical.” Stuhlbarg Int’l Sales Co. V.
20 John D. Brush & Co., 240 F.3d 832, 839 n.7 (9th Cir. 2001). To obtain injunctive relief, 21 Ozone must show that (1) it is likely to succeed on the merits, (2) it is likely to suffer 22 irreparable harm in the absence of preliminary relief, (3) the balance of equities tips in its 23 favor, and (4) an injunction is in the public interest. Stormans, Inc. v. Selecky, 586 F.3d 24 1109, 1127 (9th Cir. 2009). “A preliminary injunction is appropriate when a plaintiff 25 demonstrates that serious questions going to the merits were raised and the balance of 26 hardships tips sharply in the plaintiff’s favor.” All For The Wild Rockies v. Cottrell, 632 27 F.3d 1127, 1134–35 (9th Cir. 2011). This is only appropriate as long as the plaintiff also

1 shows there is a likelihood of irreparable injury and that the injunction is in the public 2 interest. Id.

3 IV. DISCUSSION

4 Ozone asks the Court to issue a TRO or preliminary injunction forcing Wheatsheaf 5 to either disregard its corporate form and collapse Wheatsheaf, WGUS, and TriStrata into 6 one entity, or require Wheatsheaf to “make WGW A [TriStrata] solvent through equity 7 without giving itself a preference over any of WGW A creditors.” Dkt. #3 at 3-4.

8 In order to obtain injunctive relief, Ozone must first establish a likelihood of success 9 on the merits. Here, Ozone contends that it insisted that Wheatsheaf be a party to section 10 6.05, in order to ensure that TriStrata had the financial backing to meet its obligations under 11 the APA and the TSA. Dkt. #3 at 8. By failing to provide TriStrata with the necessary 12 funds to enable it to continue servicing the Excluded Contracts under the TSA and allowing 13 it to go into receivership, Ozone argues that Wheatsheaf has breached its obligations under 14 the APA. Id. at 15.

15 Wheatsheaf, on the other hand, insists that it was only a party to the APA for the 16 limited purpose of ensuring TriStrata had sufficient funds to consummate the closing and 17 pay the Purchase Price and that its obligation did not extend to the TSA (to which it is not 18 a party). Dkt. #9 at 11. Wheatsheaf notes that Section 6.05 is a representation and 19 warranty, not a guarantee, and that it has already satisfied its obligation under the APA, 20 when TriStrata paid the Purchase Price in full. Id. at 11-12. In addition, Wheatsheaf 21 argues, even if TriStrata did have an obligation to service the Excluded Contracts, it is no 22 longer required to continue servicing the Excluded Contracts in light of Ozone’s material 23 breach of the TSA. Id. at 12.

24 Under Washington law, if a party is in material breach of a contract, the other party 25 may treat the breach as a condition excusing further performance. Colorado Structures, 26 Inc. v. Ins. Co. of the W., 161 Wash. 2d 577, 589 (2007). A material breach is one that 27 “substantially defeats” a primary function of the agreement. Park Ave. Condo. Owners

1      Ass'n v. Buchan Devs., LLC, 117 Wash.App. 369, 383 (2003). Materiality is “dependent 2      upon the circumstances of each particular case.” Jacks v. Blazer, 39 Wash. 2d 277, 286
3      (1951). Here, TriStrata agreed to service the Excluded Contracts and, in exchange, Ozone 4      agreed to pay a service fee within fifteen days of receipt of an invoice from TriStrata. Dkt.
5      1-1, Ex. B, TSA § 4.02. According to Wheatsheaf, Ozone has failed to pay up to 6      $1,860,166.99 in invoices as of February 28, 2019. Dkt. # 9 at 8. Without these funds, 7      TriStrata alleges that it is unable to cover its monthly costs, forcing it to file for 8      receivership. Id. at 9. On the record before the Court, it seems likely that a jury would 9      find Ozone’s breach “material.” Jacks, 39 Wash. 2d at 286 (holding a breach was material 10     where the buyer failed to make advance payment on demand for lumber and the seller 11     relied upon the disputed funds “to keep the mill in operation.”). The Court finds that 12     Ozone has failed to establish a likelihood of success on the merits of its claims because it 13     is likely that Ozone materially breached its agreement with TriStrata.

14     Furthermore, even if Ozone could demonstrate a likelihood of success on the merits, 15     it has failed to demonstrate that it will suffer irreparable harm. In order obtain an 16     injunction, Ozone must show that it is likely to suffer irreparable harm – the mere 17     possibility of irreparable harm is insufficient. Winter v. Nat. Res. Def. Council, Inc., 555 18     U.S. 7, 22 (2008). In support of its request for injunctive relief, Ozone argues that if 19     TriStrata fails, Ozone will potentially be in breach of approximately 250 of the Excluded 20     Contracts and face “nearly limitless liability.” Dkt. #3 at 23. But monetary damages alone 21     do not establish irreparable harm. See, e.g., Hughes v. United States, 953 F.2d 531, 535-22     36 (9th Cir. 1992) (financial suffering and alleged due process violations insufficient to 23     demonstrate irreparable injury); Elias v. Connell, 908 F.2d 521, 526 (9th Cir. 1990) 24     (monetary harm alone insufficient to merit injunctive relief). In addition, courts are 25     generally reluctant to grant the type of relief Ozone seeks on a motion for a temporary 26     restraining order or preliminary injunction. Great-W. Life & Annuity Ins. Co. v. Knudson, 27     534 U.S. 204, 210–11 (2002) (“[A]n injunction to compel the payment of money past due

1 under a contract, or specific performance of a past due monetary obligation, was not 2 typically available in equity.”); Lombardo v. Prop. & Cas. Ins. Co. of Hartford, 2017 WL 3 3710072, at *2 (D. Nev. Aug. 28, 2017) (“Courts sitting in equity generally do not issue 4 preliminary injunctions to compel payments under a contract during the pendency of a 5 case.”).

6 Ozone also adds that the failure to grant injunctive relief will have a “catastrophic” 7 effect on the North American food supply, noting that Ozone has the “only national field 8 service team for ozone machines.” Dkt. #3 at 12; Dkt. #4 ¶ 16, Brandt Decl.. However, 9 Ozone provides little support for these allegations. For example, is Ozone the only entity 10 capable of providing these food preservation systems such that without Ozone, the United 11 States’ food supply would be in jeopardy? Ozone also fails to provide evidence regarding 12 the likelihood or immediacy of the alleged harm. Ozone has known of TriStrata’s 13 receivership since May 2019 and received customer complaints as early as June 10, 2019.
14 Dkt. #3 at 11-12. When is the “catastrophic” harm to the United States’ food supply 15 expected to take effect? Conclusory or speculative allegations are not enough to establish 16 a likelihood of irreparable harm. Herb Reed Enters., LLC v. Florida Entm’t Mgmt., Inc., 17 736 F.3d 1239, 1250 (9th Cir. 2013); see also Caribbean Marine Servs. Co. v. Baldrige, 18 844 F.2d 668, 674 (9th Cir. 1988) (“Speculative injury does not constitute irreparable 19 injury sufficient to warrant granting a preliminary injunction.”); Am. Passage Media Corp.
20 v. Cass Commc’ns, Inc., 750 F.2d 1470, 1473 (9th Cir. 1985) (finding irreparable harm not 21 established by statements that “are conclusory and without sufficient support in facts”).
22 Ozone’s speculative allegations, without more, are insufficient to state irreparable harm.

23 Finally, the balance of equities weighs against granting injunctive relief. As noted 24 above, Plaintiff knew that TriStrata entered receivership on May 31, 2019 and began 25 receiving complaints from customers regarding TriStrata’s failure to service their ozone 26 machines as early as June 10, 2019. Dkt. #3 at 11-12. There is nothing before the Court 27 to suggest that Plaintiff could not have sought relief by a motion for a preliminary 28

1 injunction at an earlier date rather than seeking relief now by way of a temporary 2 restraining order. See Lydo Enters. v. City of Las Vegas, 745 F.2d 1211, 1213 (9th Cir.
3 1984) (“A delay in seeking a preliminary injunction is a factor to be considered in weighing 4 the propriety of relief.”); Dahl v. Swift Distrib., Inc., 2010 WL 1458957, at *4 (C.D. Cal.
5 2010) (finding that eighteen-day delay in filing TRO application “implie[d] a lack of 6 urgency and irreparable harm”). Indeed, Wheatsheaf alleges that Ozone filed this Motion 7 immediately following an unsuccessful mediation session between the parties. Dkt. #9 at 8 16. The Court will not tolerate TRO engagement for the sole purpose of obtaining a tactical 9 advantage. Having reviewed the motion, complaint, submissions of parties, and applicable 10 law, the Court concludes that Ozone has not carried its burden to warrant injunctive relief.

V. CONCLUSION

For the reasons stated above, the Court DENIES Plaintiff's motion. Dkt. # 3.

DATED this 22nd day of July, 2019.

Richard D. Jones
